Permian Monsters: Life Before the Dinosaurs

Opens 15 February 2020

252 million years ago, life on Earth was dominated by extraordinary creatures in a period called the Permian. It was a time of fearsome sabre-toothed predators, giant insects and bizarre-looking sharks. The Permian ended with a mass extinction that destroyed 90% of all life, paving the way for the next great rulers... the dinosaurs.

In this fascinating, family-friendly exhibition, which is travelling to the UK for the first time, you can discover more about this mysterious time period. Come face-to-face with fossil skeletons as well as full-size models and animatronics that bring the Permian period back to life. You can also sift through interactive dig pits and get creative in an art area.

A relaxed opening for families who are unable to visit when the Horniman is busy will take place on Thursday 16 April, 9–10am. For more information, please see the Special Events pages. In addition, look out for Permian Monster activities during the school holidays.

Tickets*: Child £5, Adult £9, Family (up to two adults and two children) £20. Horniman Members and Benefactors enjoy free, unlimited entry. *Prices include a voluntary Gift Aid donation which helps support the work of the Horniman.

To book tickets and for more information, please visit horniman.ac.uk/permianmonsters

Permian Monsters: Life Before the Dinosaurs is a travelling exhibition produced by Gondwana Studios

From Birth 'til Death: Scrolled Life Stories

23 May–23 August 2020

Enter a dramatic installation of giant papyrus scrolls and discover local life stories told in symbols. What would your life story look like? This exhibition is the result of a social arts project in partnership with artist R.M. Sánchez-Camus and local organisations including St Christopher's Hospice, Arts Network and a group of asylum seekers in south London.

Free

Stages of Making

Until 19 April 2020

Step into this immersive exhibition where all the artworks have a story to tell about design, techniques and time. Inspired by the history of the Horniman and its collections, visitors can see works including table tops made from yoghurt pots and a giant rag-rug woven from t-shirts.

Stages of Making is co-produced by artist Katie Schwab and a collective of local community members. Visitors can join in daily making activities to contribute to a live archive or book onto one of the special workshops. See the website for more details.

Free

As I Live and Breathe

Until 4 May 2020

Award-winning, internationally exhibited visual artist Claire Morgan has created stunning new pieces for the Horniman, drawing on the theme of waste and the impact that humans have on their surroundings.
